InfoVeg – R&D on your phone

InfoVeg, a new mobile and tablet friendly research database application for vegetable growers, has just been released by AUSVEG.

“The web-based app is a powerful new tool that will put a wealth of vegetable-related R&D in the palm of growers’ hands and has been designed to bridge the gap between research and growers,” said Andrew White, AUSVEG Manager of Industry Development and Communications.

“There is a lot of good research being done by the vegetable industry, but it’s of no use if growers can’t access it when they need it. InfoVeg provides growers with access to a comprehensive resource that allows them to instantly bring up a report or fact sheet relating to a specific on-farm issue,” said Mr White.

InfoVeg has been established to meet the changing information needs of Australian vegetable and potato growers.

The development of the web-app was approved by growers on the Vegetable Industry Advisory Committee and Horticulture Australia Ltd.

InfoVeg is available on Apple, Windows or Android smartphones and tablets and has been designed to be portable so that growers can access the database when they’re out in the field.

An R&D search engine containing R&D reports, tools and fact sheets for growers

To access InfoVeg, growers can visit www.ausveg.com.au/infoveg and log in using their AUSVEG website username and password.
